

About the Organization

Oasis is a newly formed collective of Lancaster County farmers, using chemical free and certified-organic growing techniques. Oasis farmers build the nutrient content of their soil in order to grow healthy plants and healthful food.

We are concerned about the health of our land, families and community and committed to growing and sharing freshly-harvested, nutrient-rich food for better nourishment.

Our members believe on-farm diversity provides sustainability. Oasis farmers grow chemical-free produce and raise cattle, pigs, lamb, chickens, turkeys and other animals humanely on pasture.

Oasis farms are small and family run. They are horse farms, which means the food you eat from Oasis is respectful of the environment since horses do not run on petroleum. The food you eat from Oasis helps to reduce your carbon footprint. There is a very strong agricultural heritage behind the farms of Oasis.

We have a facility and storefront in Ronks, PA, where food is preserved and sold, as well as a stand at Central Market in downtown Lancaster.
